

KARBONE

Karbone Inc. is an award-winning fully integrated financial services platform for renewable energy and decarbonization markets. The firm houses key strengths in Commodity Brokerage, Market Research, and Financing services. Since 2008, Karbone has been dedicated toward our core mission of providing clients and partners with the necessary data, market access, and financing options to help them succeed in the new energy transition.

The firm and its employees are proudly ranked first among competitors by renowned trade publications. Karbone boasts long-standing relationships with leading project developers, commodity marketers, utility service providers, institutional investors, corporate and non-corporate end-users, and major financial institutions amongst its core clients.

Brokerage

Renewable energy and environmental commodity transactions

Karbone's Brokerage teams source and execute a variety of transactions, bringing liquidity to buyers and sellers across the renewable energy and environmental asset spectrum. The teams operate in primary and secondary Renewable Energy Credit, Power, Capacity, Carbon, Renewable Natural Gas, and other Renewable Fuel markets.

Market Research

Proprietary data and analytics

Karbone Research provides best-in-class analysis of the political economy of the energy transition. Leveraging in-house transactional expertise, the group provides spot and forward pricing data, economic and regulatory analysis, and quantitative market research. Our clients use Karbone's proprietary research and data as a powerful tool to make informed investment decisions and navigate transactional market trends.

Capital Markets

Finance & Investment

Karbone's Financing services offer solutions for developers and investors in renewable energy and carbon projects. Karbone benefits from deep expertise in capital structuring, ranging from pre-construction project development and capital growth to tax equity. From asset valuation, to due diligence, to investment committee review, Karbone offers pragmatic and actionable insight and execution support. In addition, the firm boasts unique principal resources across project technologies via our sister company, Captona.
